

Birdcage Game

How To Play

One player uses the hollow (white) dots while the other player uses the solid (black) dots.

The players take turns drawing a line either vertically or horizontally between two of their adjacent circles. Black must try and make a continuous path that connects the right and left sides of the playing field, and white must connect the top and bottom of the field. The players must not cross any lines made in previous turns. The first player to complete their path wins.
